

5

Summary

The invention relates to connecting elements for mechanically connecting constructive elements (2, 3). It is proposed to use an elastically deformable tensioning element 10 (10), comprising a spring material consisting of a super-elastic shape memory alloy, in particular a nickel-titanium alloy, elastically expanded in the tensioning element (10).

15

(Fig. 14)